

English training that moves your people forward.

Live cohorts, native teachers, measurable progress — built for HR & L&D teams, education agents and partner schools.

Nº 01 — WHO WE ARE

We're built for real progress.

Kensington English was founded on a simple principle: that language schools too often confuse activity with progress. We teach live, in small groups, with qualified UK teachers — and we measure what learners can actually do at the end of a cohort, not what they sat through.

For corporate partners, that means a programme your team will finish. We've shaped cohorts around hospitals, airlines, accounting firms and ministries. The format flexes; the discipline doesn't. Two hours a week, the same time, the same tutor, a real conversation each session.

For education agents and partner schools, it means an institution you can recommend without rewriting your pitch every year. Clear pricing, a partner dashboard, and learners who finish the course and tell their friends.

We'd be glad to hear what your people need. Write to us —
